W. W. JONES, 79, LAST OF COUNTY WOOLEN MILL OPERATORS, BURIED

Lisbon Man's Death Recalls of Industry Which Is Now Extinct.

LISBON, O., March 11.—Funeral services were held here today for William W. Jones, 79, last of the old time woolen mill operators in Columbiana county, who died suddenly of heart disease Saturday.

His death recalls the former activity of an industry that is now extinct. Lisbon's first woolen mill was established in 1815 by Lewis Kinney. It was later operated by Orth & Straughn, and about 1831 was acquired by Godfrey Beaumont, an Englishman. In 1834 this factory was destroyed by fire, but rebuilt.

Dr. McCook Built One Factory.
In 1935, Dr. John McCook, father of Anson McCook, a member of congress from New York, built another woolen factory and leased it to Godfrey Beaumont & Son.

In 1859 a mill was built by Samuel Thompson who later sold it to a Mr. Watson. As a result of financial difficulties, the factory was idle for several years.

In 1864, John Ogden bought the mill and operated it until Feb. 1, 1874, when the New Lisbon Woolen Manufacturing company was organized. Ogden was named president, Nicholas Way, secretary, and Ezra Frost, John Burns and Jacob Harbaugh, directors.

Operated by Waterpower.
Originally the machinery in this plant was propelled by waterpower from the middle fork of Beaver creek. Later a 4-horsepower steam engine was installed.

The main building was 42x90, and an addition was erected for use as a dye house. Modern machinery was installed, and 7 persons employed.
One ton of wool a week was used in making flannels, cloths, yarns, blankets, etc.

The products had a wide sale and the output was known for its quality. The business continued actively for many years, when a portion of the factory was destroyed by fire. Today the I. C. Bean company, is occupying the remaining buildings with another line of business.

During the earlier years, Lisbon was the center of the woolen mill industry in the county.

DEFENDANT WINS DIVORCE SUIT

In the divorce action filed by Russell C. Sanor against his wife Mrs. Anna L. Sanor, of Hanover township, the court has found in favor of the defendant on her answer and cross petition. The custody of a minor child has been awarded the defendant, and a property settlement is to be approved by the court when incorporated in the final entry. Judgment has been entered against the plaintiff for the costs.

$2,800 JUDGMENT ASKED ON NOTE

To recover judgment for $2,800, alleged to be due on a note secured by mortgage, suit has been filed in common pleas court by the First National bank of Salem against J. B. and Katherine D. Gunesch. The original note was for $3,540, executed April 11, 1923.

Party defendants to this action are the Salem China company, Andalusia Dairy company and Farmers' National bank, all of Salem and the Youngstown Dry Goods Co. The petition asks that the party defendants set up their claims.

The Eastern Star will give a "Hard Times" social and dance in the ball room of the Lisbon Masonic temple Tuesday night. Trophies will be awarded for the most appropriate costumes. Music will be in charge of Arter's Collegians.

Divorce Case Decision Withheld.
Decision has been withheld in the contested divorce case filed by Clara B. Kelly against her husband, Ernest H. Kelly. The case occupied the attention of the court for an entire day, and about a score of witnesses were heard.

Visiting in Florida.
Miss Minnie E. Johnson, treasurer of the Pittsburgh, Lisbon & Western railroad company, the only woman to occupy such a position with any railroad company in the United States has left Lisbon for Florida, where she will spend a month.

Executrix Named Defendant.
Because of the death of the defendant in the case of Hanna Leininger, administratrix of estate of Walter O. Radkey, against Clara Burson, Nellie Cowan, an executrix, has been named in the action.

HE MAY BECOME RULER

Against his will, the Prince of Wales will probably be created regent within the next month, as it becomes increasingly apparent that his father, King George V., will never recover his health sufficiently to resume his duties as ruler of the British empire. Impending events, including the dissolution of parliament, formation of a new government after elections, and the usual address from the throne on the opening of the new parliament, make such a step virtually necessary.

STATE SEALERS MEET IN WARREN

Very few women take to drink from the love of it, declares a European medical expert, who says that there is usually some other reason, such as a love disappointment.

Figures recently compiled show that between the end of 1921 and the spring of 1927, at least 1,500,000 workers had to be imported into France to supply urgent industrial needs.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs. Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Home-Made, but Ends Bad Cough In a Hurry

To end a stubborn cough quickly, it is important to soothe and heal the inflamed membranes, get rid of the germs and also to aid the system inwardly to help throw off the trouble.

For these purposes, here is a home-made medicine, far better than anything you could buy at 3 times the cost. From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Put this into a pint bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to fill up the pint. This takes but a moment, and makes a remedy so effective that you will never do without, once you have used it. Keeps perfectly, and children like it.

This simple remedy does three necessary things. It loosens the germ-laden phlegm and soothes away the inflammation. At the same time it is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. This explains why it brings such quick relief, even in obstinate bronchial coughs and "flu" coughs.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles. Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

ANNIE LAURIE'S TIMELY ADVICE

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

In 1922 I joined the Navy and in 1923 while home on a leave I met a girl whom I thought a lot of and still now think more of her. In fact I am deeply in love with her.

I used to write to her twice a month for four years from my ship. In 1923 she met a young man who started to college and became engaged to him.

The other night I met her and had a chat with her and she asked me to come to see her. I learned from a near friend of mine that she and the college fellow are to be married as soon as he finishes college, in which he has six more months of study.

Should I go to see her any more or call her up on the telephone? What course should I take for I am undecided?

PUZZLED.

PUZZLED: As you are an old friend I see no harm in calling on the young lady, provided, of course that her fiancé is aware of the fact.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I have been going with two young men for over a year. Both have shown me very good times. Now each wishes me to drop the other and keep company with him.

I enjoy going out with "A" because he dresses so well.

"B" is just the opposite to "A" in regard to clothes. He never looks well dressed, as he always wears a cap and isn't very particular about keeping his suit pressed and his shoes shined.

However, "B" and I are much more congenial than "A" and I. We seem to have so much more in common and can always have a good time together.

Should I go with "A" or "B"? I can't decide, as appearances do mean a lot to me. I think a man should dress well himself if he wishes to keep a well-dressed girl interested. What do you think?

RAE.

RAE: I agree with you, my dear, that a young man should have some pride in his personal appearance. Can't you tactfully suggest to him that a cap isn't exactly dressy headgear? There are so many ways in which a girl can influence a man as to his personal appearance that I shouldn't think you would have any trouble.

As to which of the young men you should go with, really, you should be friendly with both until you are engaged. If a man truly cares for a girl, a proposal is the only proper way in which he may ask her to drop her other friends. Meantime, as long as you say you care more for "B"—well, you really should be able to decide for yourself.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a fellow in my late teens. And have been keeping company with a girl also in her late teens.

Now this is the question: I made a date with her, forgetting I had another engagement on the same night; I had some work to do. So I let her know I could not keep it, and made a date three days after. I kept it but she didn't. I haven't seen or heard from her since; that is about two weeks ago. I am positive she loves me, for she shows it in many ways, and even told me. Do you think she still cares for me?

LONSEOME LAD.

LONSEOME LAD: Why not see the young lady and explain matters to her? It would be best really for you to do this, as it may be that at present she thinks you purposely broke the engagement. And the next time don't be so forgetful.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am to be married next May and would appreciate your advice very much. My question is, would it be proper to eat our wedding breakfast in our own home and invite our friends. My fiancé and I think it would be nice, as we are building our home and will have it furnished before we are married. Our parents are living, but we would like to be in our own home. If you think it proper kindly advise me as to what I should do.

UNDECIDED.

UNDECIDED: While it is a very lovely thought, still it is not exactly what good form dictates, my dear. The wedding breakfast should be served in the home of the bride. After you are settled in your new home, then you may invite your friends. But I think it best to have your wedding breakfast in your mother's home.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

East Liverpool—America's Pottery Center

MONDAY, MARCH 11, 1929.

Hard Luck, Highs!

East Liverpool's high school basketball team will have no role to play in the Ohio scholastic tournament next Friday and Saturday at Columbus, unless from a spectator's standpoint, for the Potters were put out of the running in the second round of the eastern division battles at Dennison Saturday.

Zanesville, classed with Dover, winner of the divisional honors, and the Ceramic City quintet as a favorite in the Dennison play, deprived East Liverpool of its chance to represent the eastern zone at the state capital. And incidentally there was a touch of pathos in the defeat, for the fans were rooting for victory as the swan song of Joe Hurst, team coach, who now retires as director of scholastic athletics here.

The so-called jinx that seems to trail the Blue and White in their bid for championship honors was on the job Saturday, for after leading the Muskingum county passers at the half by a score of 14 to 13, they added but three points during the remainder of the game. The final score was 26 to 17.

However, there is no disgrace in the showing the Hurstmen made. They crushed Steubenville's hopes in the opening game a week ago, and then, in Friday's play, they scored their third victory of the season over Bellaire. But in Zanesville they ran up against a stone wall, although many of the tournament spectators picked the Potters to win.

Notwithstanding the result of the sectional tournament, East Liverpool is proud of its representatives, and should be. The school passers have made athletic history in the divisional and state tournaments, for, excepting Dayton Stivers, they are the only team to win the right to make five journeys to the semi-finals since 1916. And, too, in first year of play they annexed the northern championship, and last year it required an extra period to keep them out of the title game in Columbus.

Tough luck, boys!

Two-Edged Sword

There is good reason for President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, and those associated with him as members of the executive committee of that organization to give consideration to the present-day tendency of large employers of labor not to take on men and women who have passed their fortieth year. It's a matter which deserves the attention and study of every man and woman and every child of understanding years, for it is one which affects the entire citizenship of the country.

It is easy to get the viewpoint of the employer. With insurance and pension plans so common today in big organizations, the employer does not care to take on any additional disability risks which might work to his disadvantage, and he is still inclined to cling to the old view that age is wholly a matter of years. He does not take cognizance of the changed conditions of living. He is still inclined to look on the man of fifty as old. He does not realize that men and women are living longer lives; that they are younger in heart and viewpoint and hence younger in body; that the span of life has been lengthened. In the old days of drudgery, men of fifty were old, but with the improved living conditions and the improvement those conditions have worked on mind and body they are no longer. At fifty, they are in their productive prime.

Labor leaders say that if men and women are to be held productively dead at forty, or so near threety at that age as to justify barring them from employment, they must have far more than a living wage through the years before they reach that age; they must have an accumulating wage; a wage that will enable them to make provision for the future, and no citizen will be able to escape contributing to it. The people of the country will contribute to it, or they will contribute to a pension system in lieu of it. And they may do both.

The forty-year age deadline is a two-edged sword.

Coolidge at Home

Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Coolidge are back in Northampton—back in the modest nine-room duplex in which they lived until Mr. Coolidge was called to the governorship of Massachusetts. There they have been greeted by old-time friends and neighbors, by acquaintances and fellow-townpeople generally, and there they plan to live for an indefinite period.

The former president told press representatives who called upon him that there had been thought of a more commodious residence, but that, after looking the old home over, they had concluded that it was big enough, and that there would be no change, at least in the immediate future.

Mr. Coolidge also threw some light on his plans for the future, not so much by telling what he planned to do, but rather by divulging what he did not intend to do. He does not plan to resume the practice of the law, nor does he propose to write steadily for publication. He has arranged to write a series of articles for a limited number of magazines, but those articles out of the way, he doesn't intend to be tied down by literary work, his intention being to write only when the spirit moves him to give his views on subjects which may at the time have special appeal. Nor does he intend to travel about making speeches. He made plain that freedom from speech-making was one of the greatest reliefs to be had from relinquishing office. And he doesn't plan to visit Europe in the near future, but his comment in making this announcement to the press—that there are too many interesting places in the United States to be seen—may be taken to indicate that he plans to see more of this country.

From all of which it may be gleaned that Mr. Coolidge is steadfast to his previously announced plan to put in a couple of years at whittling.

HASKIN DAILY LETTER

By Frederick J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., Mar. 11.—Scores of persons, including children, annually are killed by unloaded guns. "I didn't know it was loaded" is an old, old explanation. And it can safely be assumed that it is a sincere one. But a blasting cap is always loaded and anyone who knows what a blasting cap is is well aware of that fact. There is no such thing as an unloaded blasting cap. Yet, despite this fact, hundreds of persons are killed or injured every year by them, including 500 children.

The spring of the year is a period in which all living things are called out to high adventure and especially is this urge felt by children. Spring comes in to the click of marble and all too frequently—to the accompaniment of the detonation of blasting caps.

A blasting cap is a copper shell about one-quarter of an inch in diameter and from one to two inches in length. It is used chiefly in mining and quarrying but also is employed for agricultural purposes such as blasting stumps of trees and boulders in connection with the clearing of land. The cap is charged with fulminate of mercury, and explosive of tremendous power at short range. The purpose of the blasting cap is to detonate charges of dynamite.

These caps come in boxes and when work is in progress and many are being used the boxes frequently are left open. Sometimes, in moving the box one or more of the caps may be spilled. Sometimes workmen carelessly leave a supply lying on a ledge of rock or the top of a tree stump overnight. There are a hundred ways in which the caps get lost or mislaid.

As they are bright copper, children are attracted to them. How many do so in ignorance of what they are can not be ascertained; probably a large number. But the children of neighborhoods where much blasting is being done should know what they are and that they are dangerous.

The spring season is mentioned because most injuries to children from blasting caps occur at that season. This may be due to the fact that the children come out-of-doors to play at that season in greater numbers and find the caps which have been dropped and, perhaps, lain under the snow during the winter months. Fatalities and injuries continue at a high rate all through the months of open weather suitable for out-door work.

The cap looks rather inoffensive and, to a youthful mind, the name does not carry dread. The child knows what a cap pistol is and perhaps thinks this blasting cap is the same thing only a little differently shaped and capable of making a bigger and better noise. It is; and also is capable of tearing off limbs and killing people.

Some idea of its force may be derived from the statement that ordinary cartridges for firearms—revolvers, rifles, and the like—contain priming caps charged with one-fifth of a grain of fulminate of mercury. A blasting cap contains from 15 to 30 grains of the high explosive.

Upon being exploded these caps fling the particles into which their copper cases are torn in every direction and with terrific force. A foot away, these particles will be driven into solid iron. They will blow a hole through a steel plate or a two inch plank of oak. It can readily be imagined what damage they do to tender flesh. Their explosion is so instantaneous that it is utterly impossible to jump away.

The makers of these caps as well as the employers of the blasters who use them in their work constantly caution their employees against leaving them about where the curious or unwary will find them. A person unconsciously treading on one on the ground is likely to detonate it and find himself minus a foot. Children, especially, are prone to try a strange looking, hard object with their teeth. It takes only a very gentle bite to explode the cap with horrible results.

Every injury to a man, whether a careless workman or not, naturally excites sympathy but special sympathy goes out to the children mingled by these caps which, like fire and water are useful and necessary servants but hard masters. Should the death and injury of the 500 children each year arising from such accidents occur simultaneously it would be a disaster which would be a nine days wonder throughout the civilized world but because the accidents are widely separated by distance and are intermittent, less notice is attracted.

Questions And Answers

By Frederic J. Haskin.

Stop a minute and think about this fact. You can ask our Information Bureau any question of fact and get the answer back in a personal letter. It is a great educational idea introduced into the lives of the most intelligent people in the world—American newspaper readers. It is a part of that best purpose of a newspaper—service. There is no charge except two cents in coin or stamps for return postage. Get the habit of asking questions. Address your letter to the East Liverpool Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C.

Q. Is a flood expected in the Mississippi Valley this spring? F. S.

A. The weather bureau says that there is no indication of flood conditions at this time. The river is rising at a normal rate for the time of year. A long period of very hard rains would alter conditions, so no positive answer can be made.

Q. Are all automobile license plates the same size? G. M. L.

A. Automobile license plates are not uniform in size. A Division of the Department of Commerce is going to make a survey in a short time, showing the sizes of the various license plates with a view to securing uniform size.

Q. What kind of a government has Italy? M. D. L.

A. Italy is a kingdom with a constitutional form of government. The king is Victor Emanuel III, and the Prime Minister, who is also Minister of the Interior, Foreign Affairs, Army, Navy, Air, and Corporations, is Benito Mussolini, who took office October 30, 1922. Practically Italy is a dictatorship, the King having been acquiescent to the dictates of Mussolini, who controls the parliament.

Q. What elements are there in the human hair? E. A. B.

A. The elements composing human hair are: carbon, about 54.52 per cent; hydrogen, 6.41; nitrogen, 17.82; sulphur, 5.20; oxygen, 16.05; some amount of mineral matter.

Q. What flowers will thrive in poor soil? C. E. M.

A. Such flowers include Love-lies-bleeding, prince's-feather, Joseph's-coat, Cape margold, godetia, dwarf nasturtium, portulaca, Scotch pink, sweet alyssum, garden balsam, calliopsis.

D. How was the income from farm commodities divided last year? H. E.

A. The gross incomes by groups of commodities for 1927-28 were: grain $1,636,000,000; meat animals $2,842,000; fruits and vegetables $1,453,000,000; cotton and cottonseed $1,548,000,000; dairy and poultry products $3,628,000,000; all farm products $12,253,000,000.

NEW YORK Day By Day

By O. O. McIntyre.

NEW YORK, March 11.—Diary of a modern Peppys: Early with Meredith Nicholson, the Hoosier councilman, to wander through the Bowery, which has become a custom when he comes to town, and we bought a green, pink and yellow hook-on the from a pushcart to send Kin Hubbard.

Then to a horologist with my desk clock which began merrily to run backward, and he tells me there are still old time clock winders in New York who go to private homes weekly to wind clocks. So walking about and picked up a lady's purse and returned it, but received scant thanks.

In the evening with Tom and Marie Hogg, from San Antonio, and Will Rogers to Dinty Moore's for corn beef and cabbage, and Will could eat but little for people who came over to inquire if he remembered them when he was playing Walla Walla or Oshkosh, and he remembered them all, the liar. To bed.

New York's doormen are becoming so important they are being apotheosized in pen and ink drawings in fashionable periodicals. From a simple uniform of blue with cap to match, they have progressed to gorgeous costumes, caparisoned in gold and silver, and patent leather top boots.

Some uniforms cost $500. It has been found a flossy doorman is as important as a glittering window display. Jewelry and specialty shops, perfume parlors and dressmaking establishments discovered women adore the queenly feeling of attention by a major domo in all his splendor.

The doorman is no petty grubber these days. With salaries as high as $40 a week and tips often doubling that, he has almost left the glorified head waiter in the well known shade. Most of them are husky young Celts, fine of figure and full of blarney.

They stand as a symbol of class and distinction, and because they have an unerring instinct for a counterfeit humankind it becomes highly important in New York to know them. On Broadway their dress is a little more garish—especially in front of movie palaces.

Here they duke it up with high furred headgear with chin straps.

YOUR HEALTH

An Ounce of Prevention Is Worth A Pound of Cure.

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland.

To teeth and toes must go the pain for carrying misery to civilized man. Corns, bunions and decayed teeth have ruined the happiness and impaired the usefulness of millions.

Primitive man had strong, clean and enduring teeth. Rough food demanded and received through chewing. Dental decay was rare indeed.

Primitive man wore no shoes. His toes were permitted to go where Nature intended. A line drawn through the length of the big toe and projected backward, ended in the middle of the heel.

It is a pity to think the physical body should grow less perfect as the direct result of civilized ways. But it has, certainly in some respects. That is particularly true of the feet.

Men and women who are fussy to the last degree about their clothing, will take any shape in shoes without question. They employ the best of tailors and dressmakers, but accept whatever is offered in foot wear. Of course I am discussing fit and not materials.

During the World war there were many things given credit for "winning the war." I am sure no one can question that the physical condition of the soldiers was the chief factor. What was done to relieve them of foot ailments was no small part of this program.

Policemen and barbers, clerks in stores, farmers and laborers, housewives—everybody having occasion to stand on the feet hours at a time, can testify to the evil effects of foot defects. Tender feet, sore corns, aching joints, calloused soles—all these are bad enough. Then when these suffering feet are trust into tight or ill-shaped shoes, there is increase of misery.

Don't neglect your poor suffering feet. Give a little thought to your shoes. Have them properly fitted.

Now about those corns: Do you know that there are well-equipped colleges where men and women are carefully trained in foot-care? As applied these days this profession has become really scientific.

It is possible to get rid of the ingrowing nails, thick corns, callouses and the other effects of wearing wrong foot gear. Don't fail to give yourself the benefit and comfort of such treatment.

May I remind you that it is not alone the shoes that must be borne in mind? Short stockings are capable of doubling up the toes and causing trouble.

Many persons pay dollars and dollars to have their finger nails manicured and never think of caring for their toes. Just because the fingers show is no excuse for limiting your care to them. You make a wreck of yourself by permitting sore feet to spoil your happiness.

Nails are put on edge and health undermined by steady pain, no matter where it is located. Take care of your feet.

Turning Back Pages of Memory

By O. O. McIntyre.

Twenty-five years ago.

March 11, 1904.

Howard A. Fouts and Miss Maude Fortune were married Wednesday in New Castle.

William B. Copestick, a potter, and Miss Eva C. Stanley, were united in marriage last night in the home of Mrs. Kenney, Broadway.

Harry A. Koch is at Daytona, Fla., where he will remain for two weeks, having concluded a visit in St. Augustine.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McElfresh of Chester, a daughter, on Monday night.

Miss Grace, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Smurthwaite of Monroe street, is seriously ill.

Mrs. T. T. McCann and Mrs. Mollie Reeves of Wellsburg, W. Va., who have been ill in the former's home here, are reported better.

And the page boys, not much bigger than Roger Wolfe Kahn, with tamboourine caps and pouter pigeon-cut uniforms in the afternoon tea rooms rate a few lines. They have become a striking part of the scenic flub-dubbery with their costumes of flaming red, lavender, snow white and green. Many have been imported from the swank establishments of London and Paris. And are considered "cute" as everything.

In the ultra hotels the elevator operators change to evening costumes at six o'clock. At the Ritz they wear braided tail coats, with knee length silk pantaloons, black silk long stockings and silver buckled pumps and to ride with them and chew gum is a perfect circus.

A newspaper columnist friend—you have to mix up with all sorts in this kind of work—just asked me what had become of those middle-aged elevator operators who were derby hats, puffed a pipe on duty and also had a high stool upon which to rest when duties were not rushing.

From a bank's essay on thrift: "Saving requires intelligence. The penny wise and pound foolish are like those whose idea of thrift is in saving old strings, rubber bands, corks and letter clips. They get nowhere." Certainly no comfort there for a paper bag putter away.

How Baby Specialists Treat Constipation

Constipation in babies and children is the cause of colic, bloating, skin disorders, etc. It weakens them, just as it does grown folks; makes them cross, feverish and fretful. But don't use grown folks' medicine with them, baby specialists advise. Ninety per cent. of them recommend just one preparation for constipation, colds and other ills of babies and children. They say Fletcher's Castoria. Millions of mothers have proved its merit during thirty years of use. Castoria is purely vegetable, harmless and pleasant-tasting. Genuine Castoria always bears the Fletcher signature. Avoid imitations.—Adv.

BETWEEN BYOU AND ME

BY JOAN

The music that reaches farthest into Heaven is the beating of a loving heart. . .

WHAT A NIGHT! I mean last Wednesday. You haven't forgotten either, that wind blowing terrifically. . . the house actually trembling. . . windows all rattling. . . weather-strips whistling gustily. 'Twas an ideal night for deep thinking. You see I was trying to figure out what might happen if this gale continued. Wind storms have caused a lot of disaster, in loss of lives and property damage. However, I had this consoling thought, "I am insured against tornado loss with the Lee C. Cooper Agency." You thought the same? Fine.

UNLESS YOU WERE IN OGILVIE'S, this very day. . . in the Washington St. Annex, you haven't seen those striking Epoxes, or the brilliant new Svelda crepes so varied in color and so easy to keep fresh and clean, as they're perfectly washable. Then there's a captivating array of Celanese fabrics. Besides, there are some mighty attractive color combinations, designed especially for the ensemble frock. Almost every woman does some sewing and there are dozens of things you can create from these gay fabrics. . . dresses and aprons, curtains, bedspreads, lampshades, etc. You will find a fabric for every need and a color to meet your approval, now that the stocks are complete.

WELL, GIRLS, THERE'LL BE SOMETHING new on our minds in less than two weeks. You've guessed it. A new Easter bonnet! Faithfully, hopefully and charitably, all winter long, we've "put on the old gray bonnet." Away with it. All in favor of a pretty new hat that breathes a message of Spring and youthful charm. . . please signify by paying an early visit to LEMMER'S. There you will find that the ballbunt. . . the Haku. . . Perle Visco and the ultra-smart Bangkoks top the list of finest straws. . . then there are the felts and the stitched silk hats in every conceivable color and design. At LEMMER'S you will find it an easy as well as a delightful task to choose your hat.

"LOOKS ARE MOST DECEIVING," in some instances, but not so with the butter you buy at the City Market. It looks good and believe me, it really is, but there's not a reason in the world why it shouldn't be good, when you consider that Allens, in making their butter, use only the best cream obtainable. It is tested and pasteurized before being churned. Those tempting golden blocks of butter that you see in the case are never over one day old. . . a fact well worth remembering the next time you need butter.

I MENTIONED PREVIOUSLY the sample line of white kitchen stoves, which are on sale at Crook's Furniture store, but I failed to tell you the thing of most importance concerning them. They are Lorain and Jewel stoves and they certainly would cheer the cook and brighten the kitchen at the same time. When you buy either a Jewel or a Lorain stove you may be certain you are getting a stove of highest quality and one which will give you superior service.

"DETECTIVE STORIES are written backwards and it takes about nine months to write one," says S. S. Van Dine, mysterious nom de plume author of a series of detective stories, that has broken best-seller records in the United States and England. The first of his stories to be filmed is "The Canary Murder Case," which will be showing on the screen of a local theater in the near future.

Have you ever listened to a cat purrr and wondered what sort of mechanism it must have to give forth that rhythmic tune? It's silly, I know to assume that the cat uses Milliron's fuel. . . but wait a minute. . . do you realize that a car that has SOHIO gasoline and Pennsylvania Motor-oil in its tank will give forth that same constant, even purrr. It will never chug-chug in a noisy way. Wont knock either. If you want your car to always run smoothly and quietly be sure to use the fuels handled by the Milliron Filling Station Cor. 2nd & Washington Sts. If I were given to slang, which I'm not, I'd say they were the Cat's Purrr!

REV. R. M. DAVIS GOES TO HIS NEW PASTORATE

Farewell Sermon Delivered in Chester Last Night.

U. P. MINISTER

Call to Sixth Church In Cleveland Accepted.

Leaving today for Cleveland, O., where he will assume the pastorate of the Sixth United Presbyterian church, the Rev. Ray M. Davis preached his farewell sermon in the Chester United Presbyterian church last night. His subject was "The Cost of Climbing Sycamore Trees."

In the Forest City, the Rev. Mr. Davis, who has served one year in the West Virginia town, will succeed the Rev. W. J. Giffen, who is not related to the Rev. Dr. J. W. Giffen, pastor of the First United Presbyterian church of Cleveland and who some years ago was stationed in Wellsville. The former has accepted a call to Morning Sun, Iowa.

A native of New Concord, O., the Rev. Mr. Davis came to Chester from Moundsville, W. Va. He was often a soloist during the Billy Sunday meetings in East Liverpool.

"It costs in the necessity of giving up worldly allurements and habits to see Jesus Christ," he affirmed. "It cost Nicodemus, Saul and all of those qualified as disciples and apostles the same thing."

"And the church of today is the outgrowth of this cost. To maintain it and guarantee in its continued growth similar costs will have to be paid. Jesus began with twelve disciples who saw Him as He passed by. Like a leaven in the lump were they as they added to it such that should be saved."

"As we pay costs in developing educational systems so must the church pay the price for its demanded expansion."

"The church of tomorrow, like Zacharias, must climb a sycamore tree that it may gain a vision furthering its growth. He noted that 3,000 Presbyterian churches of the 11,000 Protestant ones in the country reported no additions last year. "Such a condition proves that their members are not paying the needful cost. They are not viewing the situation about them from the vantage points of sycamore trees. Until they do retrogression will continue to be reported."

Grand Jury in Session.
Several cases from Chester are among those being considered today by the grand jury at New Cumberland. Petit jurors will report next Monday when trials will begin before Judge J. Harold Brennan.

Class Meeting Tuesday.
Members of the Queen Esther class of the First Presbyterian church will be entertained tomorrow night in the home of Miss Mary Hays in Carolina avenue. Associate hostesses will be Mrs. C. R. Rodocker, Mrs. A. M. Moncrief and Miss Ethel Allison.

“WHERE IS SOUL AFTER DEATH?” PASTOR’S QUERY

Future Life Discussed By Rev. J. W. Lawther. SERMON SERIES Other Discourses in District Churches Sunday.

“It would be inconsistent of God to create man with the idea of a future life if there were none” declared the Rev. J. W. Lawther, Ph. D., pastor of the First Presbyterian church, last night in the first of a series of sermons on the general subject. “The Soul After Death?” His initial theme was the query: “Where is the Soul After Death?”

Basing his viewpoints on Paul’s assertion to the Corinthians in his first letter to them, “Now is Christ risen from the dead and become the first fruits of them that slept,” he accepted the apostolic avowal that the afterlife is beyond human dissolution.

Science, philosophy and the scriptures, he pointed out, discussed or considered in part the possibilities of continued existence after death, but said the only definite knowledge of it came from the Bible.

He noted the universal interest of people the world over in wishing to know what occurs beyond the vale of human activity. “Where are the loved ones who have passed? Are they able to look back at those left behind? Shall we know them upon joining them? Do they wonder what earth people are doing? were questions ever on the tongues of practically all persons at times, he suggested.

Created in Image of God.

“Man,” he held, “created in the image of God, communed with his Maker.” The fact that every instinct looms him as immortal.

Soul Never Dies

“Paul stresses the future life. The other apostles did likewise preaching the death, burial and the rising on the third day of the Christ. And so Christians hold as basic belief in the resurrection of the dead and everlasting life in the world to come.”

Despite the atheistic-materialistic view that the soul of man dies with the body, he asserted, it never dies. “Our real selves never die,” he explained. “The body dies, is buried and returns to dust. But the soul, free from sin, passes on to an intermediate state in which there is no more sickness or suffering. It is an exalted, blessed state. At the resurrection our bodies will be raised and reunited with the soul following which there will be for Christians a still more exalted and blissful existence.”

But he said that there would be no probationary period for the wicked in this intermediate state. “If one is not saved at death he never will be,” he commented. “If the sacrifice of Christ was not sufficient for all sin it would hardly be any more of an atonement at this later period.”

He described the viewpoint of some that the soul like the body was buried or entered into a state of coma.

Methodist Protestant.

“Prayer shapes things because it releases the power of God,” declared the Rev. John F. Dimit, pastor of the First Methodist Protestant church, Jackson street, in the tenth of a series of studies of the Book of Acts yesterday morning. His subject was “The Church at Prayer.”

Pointing out a condition resembling pitched battle between the then forces of evil headed by King Herod and the Christians of the early church in which James was slain, Christ’s followers vexed and Peter thrown into prison, he showed the devotees of the church fought in the controversy by simply “praying without ceasing” for the imprisoned apostle.

“It was a sight for angels to look upon and a gracious thing for the early church to do in its crisis,” he said.

They followed the precedent of patriarchs and prophets who were ever men of prayer.

Prayer has always brought results in spiritual lessons and power. When filled with the Holy Spirit prayer brings spiritual power. The need of the pew is spiritual power. By the channel of prayer, the communion with high heaven and supplication with the Great Storehouse, it can be procured.”

He said prayer will bring to those utilizing it a new moral and spiritual courage. It will cause Christians to speak the words of God with boldness as did Martin Luther, the hero of the Reformation. It enabled the disciples of the early church to face prison, the arena and martyrdom with courage.

“Prayer will cement the church together as nothing else can do; it will unify the followers of Christ as it did those of the early Christians, making them of one accord and of one mind,” he said.

“When things look dark to us, when we are discouraged what better can we do than to engage in ceaseless prayer.”

Salvation Army.

Herself a veteran of 40 years’ service as an official of the Salvation Army in Great Britain and America, Mrs. Major Joseph Hughes delivered a sermon to those taking steps for promotion from the ranks in the West Third street citadel last night.

Her address culminated a day of activity that was known as “Candidate Sunday” in which three young persons listened to advice that will aid them in the Army Training college in New York.

The services also paved the way for a farewell next Sunday for Captain and Mrs. Harry Bennett, who the following Tuesday will leave for an assignment to be made in the interim.

BANDITS SHOOT CINCINNATI MAN

CINCINNATI, O., March 11.—(I.N.S.)—Joseph Thomas, 26, of Norwood, is in a critical condition in General hospital here today, suffering from a bullet wound, received when two bandits held up and robbed the gasoline station of Raymond Vaughn, Springfield pike, opposite the Carthage fair grounds last yesterday.

The two thugs, according to police, entered the place and requested of a caretaker, turned his back, they pulled out revolvers and told him to hold up his hands. The men took $700 from the cash register, and then one of them said, “Let him have it.” A shot was heard and Thomas collapsed to the floor.

At the hospital, police found that Thomas had $198.33 and a watch in his pockets. Police believe the thugs became nervous and shot Thomas, although he had offered no resistance.

Indictments Nulled

Melvin Horst, whom Elias and Arthur are charged with kidnaping, disappeared from the streets of Orrville on the night of Dec. 27 and has not been seen or heard from since. He is believed dead, the victim of foul play.

Mrs. Hughes discussed “The Call to Service.”

With her adroitly chosen text she cut instantly any Gordian knot of hesitancy that may have lurked in the minds of those who had decided to widen their activities for the Master when quoting him, she said: “Let the dead bury their dead; but go thou and preach the kingdom of God.”

“There is no higher service in heaven or earth than the acceptance of God’s call to be partakers with Him in building His kingdom,” she said. “It is eternally important to thus preach the gospel.”

She noted the high honor of such a call.

Three conversions followed the discourse. In the morning service Carl Galloway, beginning the special services of the day, spoke on “The Call to Samuel.” Miss Mollie Eason sang “I Have Found A Friend In Jesus.”

Honor Negro Heroes.

A memorial service to American Negroes who had distinguished themselves in various military campaigns of this country was held by members of the African Methodist Episcopal church, West Ninth street, last night. Special reference was given to Crispus Attucks, the first man to fall in the Revolutionary war from the ranks of the colonies. In charge of the services was the Rev. J. D. Sinclair, the pastor.

Directed by Mrs. Ralph E. Branson, the choir sang a number of selections in keeping with the spirit of the meeting. To conclude it P. T. Brown sang “Be A Hero.”

Mrs. J. A. Goode read a comprehensive paper in which she noted the part taken by Attucks in the Battle of Lexington in which he lost his life, as well as his connection with the Boston Massacre previously. She said that he had been a slave before he came North and entered the army to fight for independence.

In 1778, Washington’s army, she said, comprised 35 Negroes for each regiment in it, they totaling 770, with a total of 3,000 in it during the entire struggle for liberty.

At Bunker Hill two of the heroes of that struggle were Peter Salem and Solomon Moore, she disclosed. For the latter a petition was taken before the Massachusetts legislature at the time to recognize his bravery.

At the Battle of the Brandywine, Beach Samson, a huge Negro, swept through the British ranks by mowing down the men with a scythe, she declared.

At the Battle of New Orleans, another Negro who was known as Major Jeffre greatly distinguished himself by rallying the troops to victory at a crucial moment.

She said these were free Negroes, living in the south, who were drafted into the southern armies during the war between the states. And she recalled how the famous Tenth Negro cavalry came to the rescue of the Rough Riders.

Many were with General Pershing as he chased the well remembered General Villa in Mexico in 1916.

She noted how Harry Johnson and a Negro companion with simply a bolo knife and a rifle defeated 24 Germans on a dark night in No Man’s Land in the World war for which feat they won the Croix de Guerre. The same French decoration was given, she noted to an entire Negro regiment in the battle of the Argonne.

Miss Catherine Johnson spoke of Toussaint L’Overture, a French Negro, who signally aided in winning the freedom of Hayti in 1796.

The Rev. Samuel Jackson gave a realistic account of the fight of the schooner Tompkins with a British war vessel in the war of 1812 in which they shouted “Boys, don’t haul the colors down.”

MERCHANT SHIP PARLEY URGED

WASHINGTON, March 11.—A conference of representatives of American industry and labor to decide upon a policy for the building of a great cargo merchant marine was proposed today by Senator Wesley L. Jones (R) of Washington, co-author of the Jones-White shipping act.

Congress having determined upon a policy to build up the passenger merchant marine, there is now a crying need that the country turn its attention to vessels which will carry American commerce overseas, he said.

The Jones-White act, he pointed out, provided mail subventions to aid passenger ships and this indirect subsidy can also be given to some combination of passenger-cargo ships. The bulk of the cargo ships, however, do not benefit by the act.

SAILOR KILLED IN CHINESE FIRE

LONDON, Mar. 11.—An American sailor was among 12 persons killed by a devastating hotel fire in Hong Kong, China, according to advices received here today.

A Central News dispatch said that Stephen Kish, of the U. S. cruiser Memphis, was killed when he jumped from a window, missing a sheet held by firemen.

An American petty officer named Phillips saved his life by improvising a rope made out of knotted sheets, with which he escaped from the building.

at Mulberry street and Pennsylvania avenue.

Director Moore also calls attention to the city ordinance which fixes a maximum speed limit of 15 miles an hour for automobiles in the congested district.

Speeders Warned.

“Drivers who speed across street intersections and in congested districts automatically assume all responsibility for results,” Moore claims. “The pedestrian must, of course, exercise proper care but his rights are protected against violation of traffic rules under the law.”

“This same responsibility also attaches itself to the driver who is making a turn either left or right under a traffic light. As soon as he turns in either direction he leaves the path of the green light and encroaches on the rights of the pedestrian, who is crossing under the protection of the red light. The department of public safety will insist that drivers exercise care while making turns at intersections.”

Ohio Miner Loses Appeal.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Anthony Minich, convicted of contempt of the southern Ohio federal court during the mine strike of 1928, today lost an appeal to the supreme court for a writ of review.

He was convicted for remarks made in a speech at Dillonvale, Ohio, Feb. 17, 1928, to which town he came from Pennsylvania.

WOMAN IS HELD IN DEATH OF CANTON PRIEST

Pastor Shot Down in Vestibule of Church. VICTIM LAUDED Bishop Says Prisoner’s Demented and Tool Of Enemies.

CANTON, Mar. 11, (I.N.S.) — Arraigned before Judge U. S. Johnston in municipal court today on a charge of murdering the Rev. Father Joseph A. Riccardi, Mrs. Mamie Guerrieri pleaded not guilty and remained in the county jail without bond to await action of the grand jury on first degree murder charges which stand against her. The arraignment was brief and without incident. A large crowd was in the courtroom.

CANTON, O., Mar. 11.—Mrs. Mamie Guerrieri, 27, who shot a Catholic priest, a parishioner of the church, had waited in the vestibule until most of the other members had departed.

She spoke in a low tone to the Father Riccardi, he answered her, and she suddenly drew a pistol from beneath her loose fitting cape and fired five shots. Three of the bullets went wild, one struck the priest in the abdomen and another grazed his neck.

Priest’s Death Bed Statement.

Father Riccardi was near the baptismal font, where he was to baptize a child, when the shooting began and he fell to the floor. Mrs. Guerrieri made no attempt to leave the vestibule. She brandished the pistol, which still contained one bullet, and threatened church people when they approached her, declaring “I’ll kill you too.”

In a death bed statement, Father Riccardi said the woman approached him and said, “I want to speak to you about my daughter, Galena.” The priest said he replied, “I’m glad you’ve decided to send her back to our school,” and that a moment later the woman began shooting.

Father Riccardi, whose parents live in Cleveland, was a student at the University of Rome and was ordained in Rome in June of 1924.

Church Recently Moved.

Bishop Joseph Schrembs, of the Cleveland diocese, talked with Father Riccardi before he died. The Cleveland bishop declared it his opinion that the woman was demented and that she was the tool of enemies of the young priest who played on her emotions. Mrs. Guerrieri is the mother of four children.

St. Anthony’s church has recently moved and this stirred up opposition to Father Riccardi among some people. Bishop Schrembs said. Bishop Schrembs paid high tribute to the young priest, declaring he “was fighting for the upbuilding of a decent, clean living Italian colony in Canton, free from the influence of gambling places, bootlegging joints and infamous houses which infested the old location of the church.”

DRY CHIEF HITS SAFETY BILL

COLUMBUS, O., March 11.—When the Ohio senate passed the public safety bill it “indicated a surrender to the wet element,” according to a statement which was issued today by Charles M. Earhart, attorney for the Ohio anti-saloon league.

The bill’s passage was also “a straw showing the domination of the big city crowd in legislative matters,” Earhart asserted.

“A big-city man is author of the measure and a big city man is director of commerce, under whom the public safety division is placed, and neither of these has ever been accused of having worked for the dries,” the statement continued. “Besides, the public safety division is essentially a law-enforcement agency, and yet it is hooked up with the state department of commerce.”

FIRE DESTROYS COLUMBUS CHURCH

COLUMBUS, O., Mar. 11.—The north Methodist Episcopal church here, built in 1882, today was a charred mass of debris following the $75,000 fire which destroyed the structure yesterday. The blaze was discovered about 1:30 yesterday afternoon and four alarms were turned in before the fire was brought under control. A large lumber yard and mill, near the structure was threatened by flying sparks.

Many memorial and art glass windows were broken by the force of water from the fire hoses.

An addition to the church, which was built in 1906, also was destroyed.

TEN ARE HURT IN HOTEL FIRE

READING, Pa., March 11.—Ten persons were injured when fire raged through the Belmont and Colonial hotels here early today. More than a score of guests leaped from the upper stories into life nets or clambered down fire extension ladders.

The buildings, located in the heart of the city’s business district, threatened to result in a blaze that would have swept the entire section. The damage will amount to $725,000. Several cold hampered firemen and caused much suffering among the inmates of the two hotels as they fled in their night clothing.

LEE DONOVAN IS FINED $100

Lee Donovan, 288 1/2 Ravine street, was fined $100 and costs by Municipal Judge J. C. Hanley today after being found guilty upon a charge of the illegal possession of intoxicating liquors.

Donovan was arrested after Patrolman Roth broke up a “party” which was alleged to have been in progress at his home at 2:15 o’clock Sunday morning, police said. Police confiscated a jar containing a quart of liquor, they said.

sions. And he would stand better, in the eyes of history, had he refrained from certain wholesale butcheries. The old French statesman, striking off with his cane the heads of grain that stood highest and telling the young king to follow that example, had an idea, cruel but sound.

COL. LINDBERGH, starting from Mexico City to pilot the first Mexican airplane, flew over revolutionary troops on his way to Texas, offering a target to sharpshooters. Lindbergh evidently agrees with Rickenbacker and other experienced fliers that attack from the ground amounts to little.

To disturb an airplane, you must send a faster plane to get it. Rickenbacker testified that when fighting German airmen, of whom he brought down more than any other American, he ignored attack by anti-air craft guns completely.

AMERICA continues to be the land of big figures. Airways in the United States now total 53,000 miles. In the first six months of 1928, planes, with airmail, flew 3,202,576 miles. This will really be a flying nation some day, with 1,000,000 airplanes. Any commercial plane can be used in war, just as any rifle used to kill Indians or bears could be turned against Red Coats in 1776.

WHEN we have 1,000,000 planes in the air, getting faster every year, with machine guns and bombs on the ground ready for every plane, nobody will attack us. Whoever builds an airplane renders public service.

AS for money, in the slang of the day, that is Uncle Sam’s middle name. Bank clearings for the first week in March for the country’s leading cities were $14,681,570,000 three and a half billions more than for the same week a year ago. Clearings for New York City alone were above ten and a half billions. That’s a prospectus, isn’t it? And ever has a real estate boom, which may happen in spite of its size, you will see fireworks.

SULKING MAN’S CASE POSTPONED

CANTON, O., Mar. 11.—Peter Musso, confessed slayer of Alexander Miller who he says played practical jokes on him, refused to leave his cell for arraignment today when efforts to induce him to come peaceably into court failed. The arraignment was postponed and Musso left sulking on his cell bunk.

Since his arrest Musso has apparently been the victim of several fits, though county officials are of the opinion that this is feigned in order to lay the foundation for an insanity defense. Officials say that Musso appears normal at times when he does not know he is under observation.

Recruited at Ensenada and Tijuana, the army of Governor Rodriguez, has been undergoing intensive training here for the past ten days and soon will be ready to take the field, it was announced at the governor’s palace.

No official word of the secession of the southern district of Lower California has been received here, according to Inspector General Jesus Peralta. Reports from Nogales, Sonora, said Governor Alado Aguirre of southern Lower California had joined the insurgents.

Cincinnati Tragedy Follows 11 Months’ Marital Strife.

CINCINNATI, O., Mar. 11.—“I am ready to pay the penalty,” David Price, 27, said today when he broke down and confessed to the shooting of his wife, Olla Ball Price 19, whom he previously stated had committed suicide.

“I was drunk,” the young husband declared. “We were quarreling when I pulled out a pistol and shot her. I didn’t know what I was doing.”

This ended 11 months of marital strife, according to neighbors. They said Price and his wife had quarreled frequently.

The shooting occurred at their apartment home here last night.

Price, who at first told police that his wife had shot herself, confessed after an all-night grilling.

Longfellow Is Most Popular American Poet, Preliminary Report On National Poll Shows

Great New Englander First in Poetry Lovers' Hearts.

By Frederick J. Haskin.
Director, Favorite Poem Poll.
WASHINGTON, D. C., March 11.—This is the final day for receiving at my office the votes of American newspaper readers in the national poll to determine America's Favorite Poem. I can now give to the interested readers a few facts gleaned from the preliminary work of sorting and counting the votes, which started to arrive at almost two weeks ago, and are now piled up by thousands and are in process of counting.

It will be some days before we finish the count and can tell which is America's Favorite Poem, but already it is fairly clear who is America's Favorite Poet. He is Henry Wadsworth Longfellow. I am not at all certain what one of his poems will be the most popular one, but I know from the progress of our counting so far that there have been more votes for all of his poems than for the poems

Counting Goes on to Determine Favorite Poem.

Kilmer's "Trees" or his "House with Nobody in It." Interest in Good Poetry Aroused.

It is going to be a long task to complete the tally of all these thousands of votes from the readers of newspapers in every part of the United States. Thousands of different poems have been named, some of them many times, some but once or twice. This Poetry Poll has unquestionably served to arouse a very widespread interest in good poetry, and has therefore succeeded in one of its objectives. The sacks full of mail which have come to this office demonstrate that much. Quite a crowd of us are at work here tabulating the results, and they will be announced just as soon as we can finish the task. After it is done I intend to have a small booklet printed, containing the most popular poems of the American people, so that they may be available in every home for a few cents cost.

CROWDS HEAR REVIVAL CHIEF

Rev. R. C. Beechley Delivers Two Sermons Sunday.

With large attendance at both services the Rev. R. C. Beechley, the pastor, impressed his hearers at revival services in the Pennsylvania Avenue Methodist Episcopal church yesterday. In the morning he spoke at a union meeting of adults and young people. As symbols of truths released he used seven candles. There followed several decisions for the church.

At night his theme was "The Judgment."

At tonight's service Harry Rose, of East End, will speak, while "Sunday School Night" will be celebrated Tuesday.

He utilized the parable of the two men who built houses, one on the rock and the other on the sand. "The rock represents Christ and His teachings while the one on the sand is indicative of those careless, false doctrines, fools, fads and superstitions," he said.

"Christ portrayed the importance of messages to give all churches to be saved."

"Whether believed or disbelieved the truth remains ever the same."

He shows how in the stores of temptation incident to life only those who had houses with rock foundations could withstand them. "Christ is the true foundation for character and Christian development, making for the living of the abundant life here and guaranteeing the eternal one in the hereafter," he said.

LENTEN SERVICES HERE WEDNESDAY

VICTORY MEET HERE TONIGHT

Rev. J. P. Wisman in Boyce Church Pulpit.

The wide contrasts in salvation was stressed by the Rev. John Poe Wisman, pastor, at the Boyce Methodist Episcopal revival last night. His subject was "How Shall We Escape If We Neglect So Great a Salvation?"

Preceding the service the Christian Endeavor society held a meeting which 90 young people attended.

There were four accessions to the church during the service.

It is planned to hold what is known as a Victory meeting tonight, while "Young People's Night" will be observed Tuesday night.

The congregational singing last night was in charge of William Mantz.

Though the literature of the Bible is unsurpassed and its history antedates the Chinese empire, salvation is the Bible theme throughout all of its pages," the Rev. Mr. Wisman said.

He noted the spiritual transformation wrought by salvation, for sin degrades and salvation exalts.

He noted that diligence was required of Christians, and he pointed to the dangers of neglect.

were held this afternoon in the home in Mulberry street, in charge of the Rev. W. H. Baker, pastor of the First Church of Christ, of which she was a member. Burial was made in Riverview cemetery.

BE YOUR OWN LANDLORD AND SAVE THE RENT

Finley Brothers Ready to Help You in Spring Building.

OWN HOME'S BEST

Happiness, Contentment Well Worth the Effort.

The verdict favors "A home of your own."

You're the judge and the jury. The case being tried is "A home of your own" vs. "Rented quarters."

The counsel for the former is summing up his case: "Remember, your honor and gentlemen of the jury, that the man who owns his own home has no monthly struggle to pay the landlord. He has more than a bundle of receipts after he pays his mortgage installments. He has the satisfaction of living under his own roof."

What's the verdict?

A place called home, a place of your own, a place to return to after your work or after travels with a spirit of contentment. One somehow fails to react in the same way toward a home owned by somebody else, or toward a big building.

And it's so easy to obtain, that nook of happiness that will belong to you and nobody else. The same money that is now diverted monthly to your landlord in the form of rent might just as well be payments on your home which will cease in a few years' time when payment in full is made.

The spring building era will be ushered in soon. Why not discuss your problems with the Finley Brothers Lumber company, Chester? When you build you'll want to build a home that expresses your individuality. Good lumber from the Finley Brothers company will help.

New Reading Methods
To Be Seen Here

Primary Pupils Will Appear in Demonstration on MacDonald Building Parent-Teacher Program Tonight.

WELLSVILLE, O., Mar. 11.—Concentrating largely on the theme of "Reading," demonstrating by actual examples given by pupils, an interesting program has been prepared for the March meeting of the MacDonald building Parent-Teacher association tonight in the school, Ninth street.

The program will get under way at 7:30 o'clock. In recent years changes in the method of instruction have been effected in reading, as well as other school subjects, and the efficiency of the students, as a result, has shown a marked increase, say school authorities.

Tonight's program will feature a demonstration of how reading is now taught in the primary grades.

The program follows:

Vocal selections—Mrs. Harold Gould Moore.

Talk, "A Reading Program for the Home"—The Rev. Harold F. Post, pastor of the First Presbyterian church.

Demonstration of primary reading—Pupils taught by Miss Nelle McCombs.

Music—Boys' Glee club.

WAKE UP WITHOUT COLD

Many Here End Head Cold and Chest Cold in Few Hours at Home by Hospital Method

The pleasure of quick relief, a good night's sleep and waking up the next morning without the misery and danger of a head cold, cough or chest cold.

This, briefly, is the substance of reports from hundreds of East Liverpool people who, like Mrs. W. H. Burnette, have found quick relief through a pleasant and inexpensive home method recommended by hospital physicians.

Mrs. Burnette, for example, was treated for a severe cold which started in her nose passages and had spread down towards her chest, causing fear of pneumonia. Doctors immediately prescribed double doses of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral—a concentrated mixture of wild cherry, turpentine and other ingredients which

URGES SUPPORT FOR RELIGION

Pastor Discusses Financial Angle of Worship.

The Rev. E. L. Zachmann, pastor of the First Evangelical church, addressed a large audience last night on the subject, "A Pressing Stewardship."

He quoted, "Honor the Lord with thy substance and with the first fruits of all thine increase so that they barns be filled with plenty and they presses shall burst out with new wine."

The pastor asserted that both Paul and Solomon, the wise men, dealt with the same line of thought, namely, the title law, for that was the only standard of giving that was practiced in Bible times and nowhere did God ever set up another standard to finance His Kingdom program.

So said: "God certainly would not usher into existence His Kingdom program without well regulated principals governing the financial obligation."

"No other business can be carried on without considerable money. The Devil's program, which involves the eternal ruin of its victims, is costing the world hundreds of millions."

"Consider the millions of dollars that are squandered for tobacco, booze and the picture show industry. One man spent $110 annually for tobacco alone."

"The money problem is a big problem. It effects every phase of life society and civilization would collapse if men refused to put money into it and religion is at a stand still unless it effects your pocketbook."

Miss Adda Dennis Improving. Improvement is reported in the condition of Miss Adda Dennis, Third street, who is a patient in the East Liverpool City hospital.
